INTRODUCTION

Node Byte is an IT Company that was established in Palestine, where the company was mainly focused on providing software development services and designing websites and mobile applications. The company became a beacon of providing services to clients who have ideas looking for a complete solution for their IT needs as the company provides them with development, maintenance and technical support .

Node Byte and Local market

At a time when most companies are looking to work on the mentality of outsourcing the needed skills from the foreign countries , Node Byte pledged to develop the technology with the local bright minds from Palestine and introduce technology to all life facilities and sectors. At the same time, the company is waiting for the opening of foreign markets where an administrative unit specialized in attracting foreign projects has been established for potential partnership with our peers from around the world.

Node Byte and the youth

The company is looking at attracting bright young minds in the field of information technology, as the company has drawn a complete training and development path for its affiliated youth in specialized fields such as artificial intelligence, augmented reality technologies, information security, digital investigation, project management, marketing and management of large and complex development processes to form teams capable of engaging in complex projects to have a better secure , bright and amazing future .

VISION

A pioneering software development base in the field of information technology and an educational path for its employees . where we aspire to have a formal curriculum to be adopted in universities and educational centers .

Values Statement

We are responsible, accountable, respectful, effective, efficient public institutions .We promote honesty, integrity, and openness in all we do .

General Manager Speech

Reasons for the failure of software projects

When technology is considered the backbone of civilization , it becomes the focus of everyone's attention, especially investors, entrepreneurs, and the youth . But most of the projects that are being worked on by these people do not see the light and remain confined to the servers . If we look a little at the reason why most technology projects fail with the availability of the most important element, which is money that transforms the idea from something imaginary to a tangible product, then you know that the main reason for the success of software projects is not just money, it is the issue of organizing the programming team and studying the requirements properly with a clear business plan

Advice from Nodebyte for complex projects manager

Strategic planning for the project, developing multiple plans and Risk management plans, properly managing the team, and using project and team management software is the key to success . because no matter how great the idea that you have , it's still an idea on paper unless it gets executed properly with the proper skills and planning

Node byte and complex project Management
